

The Hand That Guides You

It's always there as long as you're willing to reach for it.

Navigating this life is not easy. Does trying to do it all without help feel impossible some days? The neighbor, friend, or coworker who appears to “have it all together” could be deeply struggling. The social media influencer whom you idolize for seemingly “having it all figured out” might have a deep dark secret.

The reality is that we're all human and we all have basic survival needs. One of those needs, to be guided by some type of higher being or all-knowing source, is consistent in most of us all regardless of background, religion, or belief system. When you're feeling lonely, lost, or overwhelmed, the idea that there's someone or something figuratively holding your hand can make a world of difference.

The what or who is not what matters to us—angels, spirit guides, ascended masters, deceased loved ones—divine beings of any and all forms surround us and guide us day in and day out. You may know this to be true but still have trouble accessing the guidance you seek or receiving messages from beyond. This is what we're here to help with.

Whether you're looking to strengthen your own connection with divine beings and call upon them when you wish, or simply obtain your personalized messages, we can help. Our trained, gifted psychic Advisors are highly experienced in communicating with these other-worldly entities. We have psychics who can:

- Identify and put you in contact with your spirit guides.
- Provide enlightening angel card readings.
- Pass on wisdom and knowledge from ascended masters.
- Receive messages from your lost loved ones.

And that's just the start. Most importantly, we're here to act as the conduit between you and what you need to get the most out of life. Next time you feel stuck, let us help you find the path forward. You're never alone and there's always a hand guiding you!

The Vehicle Between You and Divine Beings

Ginger x3037

There are many moments in our lives where we hit pause. At that point, we may feel or catch a sign that there's something guiding us. Most of the time it triggers an instinct—puts us on a path that we need to dig into deeper and know more about. This soft nudge often leads us to break a pattern and see something more clearly. Why? To better our lives and help us gain the things we need.

Izzy x9366

Trust your intuition and allow exactly what you need at this moment. Dedicate time to tune into your universal divine beings for deeper self-care. At this time of year, you may be juggling gatherings and celebrations, resulting in an increased schedule that feels out of your control, or you may be seeking quiet time and solace. Whatever it is, focus on your wellbeing. Take deep, reassuring breaths, like you deeply love yourself. Find your comfort and joy through nature and animals or angels and divine guides.

Roxanne x3051

When you become calm and still, you will not only connect with your intuition, you will also summon your "spiritual team" of guides that gently helps you navigate through the waters of life, guiding you through decisions and pointing out areas where you need to be careful or avoid altogether. The easiest way to connect to your guides is to simply ask for help, either out loud or silently, and then be still. Don't rush things or put pressure on yourself. Calm your nervous thoughts and energy. You will feel clarity flow through you as your guides fill you with wisdom and peace.

Delfina x9724

We are all surrounded by divine beings that provide guidance, protection, comfort, and signs of their presence. Knowing that I'm never truly alone and can reach out to them for answers has always provided me with a deep sense of connection to the world around me and beyond. The direction they provide during my readings is what ensures that my clients are given a more accurate picture of what's coming up or going on in their lives.

Angela x9978

I feel so honored and blessed to be able to act as a channel with the angels for you. I am a vessel for spirit. I tap into my guides and ask the ascended masters to reveal the inspiring and helpful messages that they have for you. I then do my best to relay this information to you in our reading.

Tomi x8093

My spiritual team involves archangels, ancestors, departed love ones, spirit guides and a gatekeeper. This heavenly congregation serves as my earthly GPS. I draw from this energy when working with clients in order to express and share compassionate messages with them.

Anja x8147

We are never alone. We have spirit guides that teach and guide us daily. Spirit guides are a part of us and connected to our higher selves. Many times, they appear to me with the very best advice for clients. Our guides are our strongest form of unwavering support.

Stasch x9303

Direction can come from a variety of sources, including ascended masters and spirit guides. Those who have walked before us have gathered insights that span centuries. Even though they've left this world, they're deeply connected to ours. The knowledge they've acquired allows for a comprehension much greater than any one person's. They can see patterns, cycles and paths to tranquility that we cannot. By accessing the wisdom of these great minds, we can gain knowledge that can assist us in finding the most authentic life possible.

Ursula x9927

Our spirit guides are incorporeal beings that are assigned to us before we are born, helping nudge us and guide us through life. Spirit guides can see what's going on in our lives, so when it's time for them to intervene, they have several ways of communicating that they can utilize to accomplish this task. I would love the opportunity to help facilitate your connection directly with your own spirit guides. We all have an earthly mission to fulfill—now is the time for you to discover yours.

Minerva x3180

The holidays are a powerful time of year, representing so many things for so many different individuals. I find the holidays can create a bridge to my spiritual paths, allowing me to activate my emotional connections with others as well as enhance my intuitive energies. With the inspiration of the divine, I am guided to tap into my source of wisdom and compassion fully with heart and mind. Through the divine and my spirit guides, I can navigate the holidays with a sense of peace and harmony. I allow spirit to inspire and guide me in both my daily activities as well as to assist others in need of comfort and guidance.

Angels are beings of pure, loving consciousness and light. Their sole job is to be helpers. I shouldn't even call it a "job," because the angels tell me that "helping is a glory" to them. Angels are here to serve the light and uplift humanity by helping us believe in ourselves and open our hearts to giving and receiving more love. And they want you to feel and know that you are loved.

Angels are non-denominational—they belong to all faiths and belief systems. They tell me they belong to the "One," just like humans do. Whether you think of that "One" as love, the creator, source, God, the divine, light, or another term, it is the "all"—the one pure source of all things.

Angels do not want to be worshipped or prayed to; this is for the "One," they say. Rather, they do want to be called upon and partnered with. They're available to us to be useful, helpful, comforting, and uplifting. They say that we humans have important, unique things to contribute to uplift life everywhere, and angels are here to help each of us on our path. Angels also do love to receive appreciation and love for their assistance.

Angels' love and light is so pure, and they are such a high energy vibration, that even though they are present and beside us we often don't always see, feel, sense, or hear them. Yet there are ways to interact more easily with them. To connect with your angels, it helps to make choices that open your heart and clear your energy.

Tips to Connect with Angels:

- Keep your environment clear and uncluttered. This helps clear and uplift your energy.
- Enjoy nature. Being with flowers, trees, bodies of water, mountains, etc., also clears your energy.
- Appreciate animals. They have pure, clear energy.
- Choose uplifting activities. Exercise/movement/dance, art and crafts, time with loved ones—whatever makes your heart joyful.
- Get plenty of rest.
- Give yourself time to play and be childlike.
- Lessen what may be lowering your energy (such as social media, disturbing TV or movies, negative self-talk).
- Remember to call on the angels! You can do this mentally or out loud and thank them for being with you.

This list is not meant to overwhelm. Make it fun. Ask the angels to guide you to make small, manageable steps that help uplift your energy and connect with them more easily. And consider speaking with a Psychic Source Advisor who can help receive angels' messages for you.
